Proposed Cut In Excise Tax Is Far Reaching In Coverage

By William D. Hathaway
Congressman, 2nd District
President Johnson has sent Congress his suggestions for a $4-billion excise tax cut. He termed this massive tax reduction plan a "fiscal dividend." He expressed the confidence that this action would keep our national economy growing and prospering.

While they would not be required by law to do so, President Johnson urged retail merchants to translate lower taxes into lower prices to consumers. This would permit Americans to buy more goods with their money, creating a further stimulus to the general economy.

Welcoming the President's proposals, Judge from my mail on the excise tax, Maine citizens will welcome the President's proposals. Here, briefly are a few of the details in the proposed tax cut. The tax on automobiles will

Trucker Is Killed In Reed Crash

A 53-year-old South Carolina truck driver has become the County's eighth traffic fatality of the year. Isiah Barnes of Yemassee, S.C., was killed Thursday afternoon after the tractor-trailer he was driving went out of control at the foot of Santa Claus Hill on Route 2A in Reed and crashed into the Wypitlock stream.

The fatality was the fifth of the year for Reed Plantation, four of these coming on Route 2A. Last February two men and a woman died in a crash on that highway, while earlier the same month a man died in a head-on crash on Route 171. State Police said Branton Friday, 43, also of South Carolina and a relief driver in the trailer truck, was injured in the crash Thursday, being treated for a broken shoulder.

The truck, according to police, was proceeding south with a load of potatoes and was apparently caught in a blinding rainstorm as it proceeded down the winding hill. The truck made the sharp curve at the foot of the hill, but then jackknifed and plunged into the stream.

Money Circulation Is High In County

(Special to the Pioneer Times)
There is a treasure trove of money on tap in Aroostook County, available for the operational needs of business firms and of the local economy in general.

The volume of money in circulation is greater than it has been for a long time. Its size is indicated by the amount on deposit in commercial and savings banks and by the flow of that money as it is put back into the economic stream in the form of loans to individuals and to businesses.

The funds on deposit in Aroostook County banks, as of the end of the last fiscal year, amounted to $82,701,000, as against the total two years ago of $71,584,000.

The findings are by the Federal Reserve System, which has just issued its biennial report on the nation's money distribution, following a survey of all the banks in the country.

Locally, the amount of money in bank accounts was at the rate of $731 per resident. It compares with $633 per person two years previously, when the former survey was made.

To the business community, the importance of substantial amounts on deposit in local banks, commercial bank in particular, is that these banks may extend loans up to about five times their required reserves.

The volume of this checkbook money and, therefore, the amount available for financial services to business, agriculture and consumers, is a major factor, the Federal Reserve notes, in determining how well the economy performs.

The demand for bank credit comes from many directions. Consumers want to borrow in order to buy a car or a house, farmers want to borrow to buy seed or tractors, business men need money to enlarge their stock in trade or to expand their factories.

The report shows that the $82,701,000 in Aroostook County banks at the year-end consisted chiefly of time deposits (savings accounts) of some $40,889,000 and of some $35,061,000 in demand deposits (checking accounts) of individuals, partnerships and corporations.

In addition to this total there was an undetermined amount of other money in local circulation. This was the cash in the vaults and cash registers of business concerns and the pocket money that people carry around for their current needs.

Cross Rock Could Produce $250,000 Savings Per Year For Residents Of Houlton

The State Legislature is nearing the end of its session, but there are still some important bills awaiting action. One of these which would establish the Maine Power Authority, and thus pave the way for construction of a hydro-electric project at Cross Rock, is of concern to all residents of Maine.

Hugh Savings To Houlton
The Cross Rock project, which would harness the power of the St. John River in northernmost Aroostook County, could eventually mean a savings to the customers of the Houlton Water Company of as much as a quarter million dollars a year.

This $250,000 figure is no pipe dream. It is supplied by Paul W. Coleman, superintendent of the Houlton Water Company, and by James M. Pierce, president of the First National Bank of Houlton and chairman of the Citizens Committee that is proposing the Cross Rock project.

"It is because of this possible savings," Mr. Coleman said, "that the Board of Directors of the Houlton Water Company has officially gone on record as supporting Cross Rock. The Board has heartily endorsed Cross Rock as a means of producing cheaper electrical energy, thus reducing the cost of electricity to our consumers."

Consumers To Benefit
And this quarter of a million dollar benefit, Mr. Coleman said, would be passed directly on to the consumers. It would mean a reduction of slightly over 50 per cent in the electric bill of every customer of the Houlton Water Company.

This substantial figure is arrived at quite simply, according to Mr. Pierce, who has been spearheading a movement in support of Cross Rock for the past several months. Electrical energy can be produced by Cross Rock at a rate of 5 mills for each kilowatt hour. The Water Company is presently paying slightly over 16 mills for the power it buys from Maine Public Service.

The Water Company uses about 25 million kilowatts from Maine Public, and a reduction of 10 mills would be the equivalent of $250,000.

The total bill of the Water Company now is about $468,000, thus the $250,000 reduction is well over 50 per cent.

Supporting Facts
When the 102nd Legislature gets ready to consider Cross Rock, it will be confronted by a barrage of facts in support of the $285,000,000 project. Perhaps the most convincing of these facts will be that the contractors of Cross Rock are prepared to enter into a firm contract for the construction of the project within the engineers' estimates, and are ready to start work with the 1966 construction season. Completion would be in 1970.

The group of contractors includes Raymond International Inc., a firm with 370 offices in the United States and around the world. Its heavy construction projects now under construction include a hydro-electric project in Liberia, West Africa.

Another is Western Contracting Corp., builders of the Oahe Dam at Pierre, S.D., a structure almost twice the size of the proposed dam at Cross Rock.

Another is Allis-Chalmers, one of the foremost manufacturers of hydro-electric equipment. And the fourth is Hoosier Engineering Company which has 40 years experience in the construction of transmission lines.

Has Bonding Capacity

The Legislators will learn, if they do not already know, that this contractor group has bonding capacity to insure completion of the project for the cost contracted.

In fact, the Legislators will learn that everything is ready to go at Cross Rock, if the Maine Power Authority bill is approved. The engineering has been done, the construction bids are firm, the contractors are ready, investment bankers have pledged the necessary financing.

A detail that will probably be emphasized is that if the project should be delayed another year by the Legislature, and then approved, the cost would be increased by about $10 million, as the cost of construction mounts at the rate of about 5 per cent a year.

$1.5 Million To State

While Houlton residents would receive direct benefits from Cross Rock in the form of a greatly reduced electric bill, there would be other financial benefits to be received. Cross Rock, according to Mr. Pierce, would have earnings of $12 to $15 million a year, with as much as $1.5 million of this going directly into the State treasury in lieu of taxes.

MANUEL BILL IS SIGNED — Governor John H. Reed signs the Manuel Bill that will provide $15,000 a year for the next two years to assist Aroostook potato growers in improving their product, and in obtaining a better price for it. Watching the signing are Senator Elmer H. Violette of Van Buren, Senator Glenn H. Manuel of Littleton, sponsor of the bill, Senator Floyd L. Harding of Presque Isle, and Representative Emillion Levesque of Madawaska.

Manuel Bill Gives Growers $15,000 As Bargaining Aid

Sen. Glenn Manuel of Littleton yesterday expressed his extreme pleasure in the fact that the 102nd Legislature has given final passage to his bill which provides $15,000 a year for the next two years to assist Aroostook County potato farmers both in improving their product and in getting a better price for it.

"This money will enable the United Potato Producers of Maine to establish an office and to hire an executive secretary," said Senator Manuel. "The three chief objectives of this united effort by the growers in Aroostook County are to assist the potato farmers in obtaining a more standardized FOB potato price, to enable them to bargain more effectively with the potato processors and to continue improvements in their product to meet the needs of the growing processing market."

Senator Manuel pointed out that the United Potato Producers of Maine now has about 900 members and represents about half the growers in the state. Membership is open to any potato grower who wishes to join the organization.

"The growth of potato processing in recent years has also increased the importance of the farmer being able to bargain effectively for his crop with the processor," said Senator Manuel. He noted that 25 to 30 per cent of the state potato crop is now sold to processing plants.

The new office will provide a central location for records and farmer information as well as acting as a bargaining center.

"While the backing of the majority party was most essential to the final passage of this legislation, I would like to express my sincere appreciation to the foresighted members of the minority who also gave the bill (LD 1356) their support," the Senator said.

CPR Offers Lease Of Station Street

The Town Council Monday night continued exploring the possibility of obtaining Station street from the Canadian and Pacific Railroad. A letter was read from the CPR which offered to lease the roadway to the Town at $1 per year.

Five Year Lease
The lease, it was explained, would be offered on a five-year basis, subject to five renewals. The CPR told the Town that it did not own Station street, but held it on a 99-year lease. The letter did not say from whom the land was leased.

The Town has been anxious to acquire Station street, which leads south off Military street opposite the St. Mary's Church parking lot. The street is in rather rough shape, and the Town plans to improve it, if it can become Town property.

Council Chairman Fred Greaves said the matter would not be referred to Albert P. Putnam, Town attorney, for his advice.

Easement Approved
During the comparatively short meeting, of 55 minutes, the Council approved an easement that will permit the telephone company and the Houlton Water Company to run its lines through airport property in conjunction with the Interstate project.

Three additional victualers licenses were approved, to M. H. Fishman, Elm Tree Diner and to Jean M. Larson.

Councilman Frank Peltier volunteered to work with Fire Chief Bert Wetmore to see what can be done about preserving antique fire equipment which the Town owns, and which is now stored in the airport hangar.

Insurance Claim
A letter from Paul Coleman, superintendent of the Water Company, said that the claim of Mrs. Thomas Conlin of Loring Air Force Base to cover damages done to her car when she struck the fire hydrant near Dunn's Furniture Store on Main street, had been referred to the

Miss Bell Among Eight Finalists For Miss Maine

Miss Virginia Bell, who represented Houlton in the annual Miss Maine Pageant at Portland last week, was selected as one of the eight finalists and performed in the talent portion of the Pageant before a State-wide television audience.

The 20-year-old sophomore at Ricker College sang "I Enjoy Being A Girl," during the hour and one-half television show. The Houlton audience was disappointed, however, when technical difficulties made it impossible to see Miss Bell as she performed. Her voice was heard, however.

Also among the eight finalists and performing in the program was Miss Pamela Sawyer of Presque Isle, representing the Potato Blossom Festival. Miss Sawyer is a native of Linneus, and she also sang. But again the technical difficulties cut off the better part of her performance.

membership committee; Mrs. Harold Robinson, State president and guest speaker; Mrs. Donald Hogan, retiring president; Mother Elizabeth, Hospital administrator; Mrs. James O'Connor, State secretary; Mrs. Jerry Fitzpatrick, secretary pro-tem, and Mrs. Paul Fitzpatrick, immediate past president.

Company's insurance agents for any possible adjustment.

The letter explained, however, that the hydrant is considered a legal structure, under the law, even though it is located in the street and not on the sidewalk.

Councilman Bernard Maher made a motion that the Water Company move the hydrant on to the sidewalk to prevent the possibility of cars hitting it while backing up to the curb. The motion was defeated, 3-2.

The Water Company had agreed to move the hydrant, if the Council so requested.

Mr. Peltier made a motion that a marker be placed on the hydrant to make it more clear-visible to motorists, and this motion passed.

Proposed Cut

excise tax reduction or repeal. The cuts will add a bit more mileage to the annual pay check of the American family.

The excise tax structure has long been criticized in many quarters. The tax has been held to be extremely difficult to administer and very expensive to collect. These taxes originally were imposed as temporary measures to support the war effort during World War II.

They have been with us for nearly two decades and it seems that they should be discontinued.

Club Dues Are Out

The excise tax has been far reaching in its coverage, extending to recreation as well as to other daily activities. Among the taxes to be repealed are such diverse items as stamps on real estate transactions, taxes on admission fees such as movies, plays, etc., 20 per cent taxes on club dues of more than $10.00 per year, a 13 cents per pack tax on playing cards; matches have been tagged with a two cents tax per thousand and if plain. If fancy, the match tax is now 5 cents per thousand.

The excise tax will not be missed. They were not born full fledged but, like Topsy, grew. They developed into a strange and irrational structure which now will fall.

Cross Rock

hority, Cross Rock would be the property of the State of Maine, and when the bonds were paid off in 44 years, the ownership of this fully paid project will be transferred permanently to the State which will receive about $15 million annually for the General Fund.

Power Companies Opposed

There are two sides, of course, to the Cross Rock issue. Despite the fact that the vast project will provide by far the cheapest electrical energy in the State, and make this low-cost energy available to potential new industry, Cross Rock is being opposed by the major power companies.

It is also being opposed strenuously by the conservationists, who want the Allagash wilderness kept in its natural state, even though it might be inaccessible. Cross Rock would flood much of the Allagash, creating a huge new lake, and would open the entire region for recreational purposes.

This is the proposal the Legislature is confronted with as it tries to wrap up its business and adjourn.

20 Million People Receiving Benefits For Social Security

A retired Indiana public utility worker received his first social security check from President Johnson May 5 in a ceremony at the White House marking the increase of the social security benefit rolls to 20 million people.

William J. Kappel, 65, who retired at the end of March after 42 years of employment with the municipally owned Fort Wayne city utility system made his claim for social security benefits just as the number of men, women, and children receiving monthly social security benefits neared the 20 million mark. In January of this year, the social security program rounded out 25 years of monthly benefits payments. In this span of years, he said, the number of persons receiving monthly payments increased from 222,500 in 1940 to the current 20 million and the amount paid out annually increased from $35 million to $18 billion.

One out of every 10 Americans is now receiving a social security check each month and 9 out of every 10 workers are building social security retirement, survivors, and disability insurance protection for themselves and their families.

The social security check presented to William Kappel by the President was for $123, the maximum amount now payable to a worker retiring at age 65. Mrs. Lorena Weber Kappel, who is over 62 but not yet 65, is receiving wife's benefits of $53.40 per month. Supplementing the Kappels' social security benefits are Mr. Kappel's pensions from the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers and from the City of Fort Wayne.

Commenting on his retirement, Mr. Kappel said, "I don't know what we would do if we could not count on the social security check coming in. Even though we have a nice home that's paid for and a small pension, our modest standard of living would be reduced to the point where we might have to go out in the country to raise things to get some income if it were not for social security."

The Kappels heartily approve of what they have read

Shires Rally Past ACI, 14-10; Fort Here Today, Pl On Friday

Houlton High outlasted Aroostook Central Institute 14-10 in a free scoring contest here today, and Presque Isle here Friday in quest of an Aroostook League title.

The Shires, who won easily over ACI earlier in the season at Mars Hill, had their hands full Tuesday as they posted their fifth league victory against a single defeat.

Four Games To Play

Houlton has four games remaining, with three of them to be played at Bob Ruth field. In addition to the two games this week, Washburn will be here next Tuesday. The season ends June 4 at Fort Fairfield.

While the Shires are pointing to the game Friday against Presque Isle, it is obvious they can't overlook any of the opponents on the way. Caribou knocked them from the undefeated ranks last Friday, and ACI turned on them Tuesday.

Clough Has Four Doubles

The Mars Hill nine picked up a pair of unearned tallies for starter Willie Varney in the opening frame, and then really teed off in the second inning. Varney struck out the first man in the inning, but then seven ACI batters reached base in a row, six of them on base hits, to score six runs. The big blow was a double by Clough, who wound up the afternoon with four doubles and a walk in five times at bat, scoring four runs.

Houlton had come prepared to do battle, however, and scored four times themselves in the first inning, and added three more in the second, with a double by Joe Barlock the big blow.

After two innings the score was 8-7 for ACI.

Varney Replaced

Barlock replaced Varney on the mound for the Shires, and Keenan settled down for ACI after the rocky start. Mars Hill picked up a single run in the fourth to increase its margin to two runs, and the rain started to fall.

The rain became less of a peril in the fifth when Houlton scored twice to knot the score at 9-9. Dean Bither scored what proved to be the winning run in the seventh when his single got through the left fielder and went for three bases. He scored on a wild pitch. Three more runs came across during the inning to clinch the victory.

ACI Threatens

ACI threatened in the ninth, scoring once and loading the bases with only one out. Bar-lock got out of trouble by striking out Weeks and Shaw to end the game.

The 14 Houlton runs came on 17 hits, aided greatly by no less than 10 ACI errors. The visitors had a 14-hit attack of their own.

Gary Crafts, Steve Bishop and Bither each had three hits for Houlton, with Bishop's afternoon including a triple. Varney, Barlock and Paul Homchuck each had two hits.

Clough was the big hitter for the visitors, with his four doubles. Boyd, Keenan and Orser picked up a pair of hits each.

The line score:

Shires Boot Eight; Lose At Caribou

The Shiretowners' usually solid defense fell apart Friday at Caribou as the Vikings handed previously undefeated Houlton High a sound 10-5 thumping. Caribou got the assistance of no less than eight Houlton errors.

Willie Varney and Joe Barlock shared the pitching duties for the Shires and gave up a total of 10 hits. The Vikings picked up single tallies in the first and third innings and then added four in the fifth. Another singleton in the sixth and three in the seventh gave them a 10-0 lead.

Houlton finally got into the scoring column in the eighth, with three runs, and added their final two in the ninth.

Varney and Barlock combined for 12 strikeouts, each recording six, while Bjork posted 10 strikeouts for Caribou.

About the only consolation for the Shires, who dropped their first decision in five starts, was the performance of Barlock. He picked up two hits and scored a run, the hits being his first of the season.

The line score:

Houlton 0 0 0 0 0 0 3 2-5

Ricker Tips ASTC In Pair, 6-5; 6-3

The Ricker College baseball team moved higher up the victory ladder with a sweep of a doubleheader from Aroostook State, 6-5 and 6-3.

Ricker was led in this Northeast College Conference battle by Dick Baxter in both contests as he had a 5 for 8 day at bat with five RBI's. Baxter, only a freshman, lifted his batting average to .348 with a single, two doubles, a triple and a homer. Baxter, a former star for Bath High, raised his RBI output to 14 for the season.

In the first contest, the Bulldogs scored twice in the top of the sixth for the margin of victory after coming from behind. Baxter opened up the scoring for Ricker in the third to put the Bulldogs ahead with a three run four bagger. The Teachers came back with four runs in the bottom of the fourth to take a 5-3 lead.

Baxter drove a single run across with a double in the fifth and Carl Smith followed with his second hit of the game the following inning to send the winning run in after the tying run scored via an error. Bill Goodnough chipped in with a pair of hits including a double for the winning cause.

Carl Smith went the distance whiffing six and giving up three base on balls. For Smith, it was his third win in as many outings.

ASTC 100 400 0-5 5 4

In the nightcap, the Bulldogs again found the going rough as they had to fight from behind before coming out with the verdict.

Going into the top of the sixth, Ricker was down 3-1, but collected four hits and a base on balls with the big blow being a two-run single by Frank Loiko, his second hit of the game. Baxter missed hitting for the cycle in this game only by a home run.

Frank Loiko went the distance for the College of the Northeast as he allowed four hits while striking out six and issuing one free pass in recording his third victory of the season against a single defeat. The Bulldogs are now 8-3 overall and 3-2 in the conference.

Army Notebook

ARMY OCS — College Seniors who did not take ROTC in College would do well to check into the Army's guaranteed Officer Candidate program. Chances are, young men just coming out of college will be placed very high on the draft because of their age, and because they are no longer deferred.

Rigorous Training It takes 39 weeks of rigorous training at one of the Army's two Officer Candidate Schools to earn a commission. This program is for young men who are aiming high and who have physical stamina and mental capacity to be an Army officer.

To qualify one must be a citizen between 18 1/2 and 27 years of age, and must be a graduate or a senior in a recognized college or university. No previous ROTC is required. Persons interested in serving their country as a commissioned officer should contact their U. S. Army Recruiter for full details.

Tough Mental Exam High School graduates may also attend OCS to earn a commission, provided they qualify on tough mental exams. However OCS attendance can't be guaranteed to high school graduates before enlistment like college graduates.

There are several Maine young men now on active duty in the Army as a commissioned officer that earned their lieutenant bars at OCS. Among them are both high school and college graduates. Gloria Need Degree For the distaff side, it is mandatory that a college degree be earned prior to being commissioned. It is possible for a young lady in certain fields to receive a direct appointment as an officer prior to joining the Women's Army Corps. For

NCC Golf Tournament Here Today

The Houltou Country Club will be the scene of the Northeast College Conference golf tournament today with Ricker College acting as host for the linkers.

The annual tournament will get underway with the off time scheduled for 8 a.m., with each player to play 18 holes. The four Conference teams will be entered in the medal play with outstanding performances expected from Joe Callahan of Husson College, Bob Sherman of Maine Maritime Academy, Larry Reynolds of Washington State Teachers College, and Doug Campbell of Ricker for low medalist honors.

In Conference play, the golfers have not completed their season in which match play is used. Maine Maritime, last year's titleholder in the NCC Tournament, is presently situated in first place with Ricker and Husson closely behind and WSTC out of the running with their season completed.

Maine Maritime travels to Husson for a match Friday and the Conference is wrapped up here June 2 and 3. Ricker will host the Middies next Wednesday and Thursday for top honors in the league.

Karnes Big Man In Win Against PI

A two-run home run by big Gerald Karnes and a two-run single by Bob Hammond sparked Houltou High to a 5-1 victory over Presque Isle Thursday afternoon. In a contest halted at the end of five innings by rain. The game was played at Presque Isle.

Karnes picked up his second victory of the season as he pitched the Shiretowners to their four straight league win, and a big one over the defending champion Wildcats. He allowed only four hits, including a home run by Sponberg in the rainy fifth inning.

Burton Is Selected For Summer Course

Larry Ward Burton of Houltou, a teacher at Bridgewater Classical Academy, has been selected as one of 28 participants in Stetson University's summer NDEA History Institute at DeLand, Fla. Participation in the eight-week graduate program carries with it a stipend of $600 plus an allowance of $120 per dependent.

Selection was based on high academic performance, high test scores and recommendations from principals and superintendents.

EARNS TRACK LETTER

Noel J. Leishman Jr. of Houltou has been awarded a letter as a member of the 1965 varsity track and field squad at Bowdoin College in Brunswick.

ing a home run by Sponberg in the rainy fifth inning. Houltou took a 2-0 lead in the third inning on the homer by Karnes, and then salted away the victory with a three-run outburst in the fourth. The key hit was a wrong field single by Hammond that scored two runs. It was the first safety of the year for the sophomore second baseman.

The scheduled game had been postponed three times because of rain, and was nearly halted Thursday before the minimum five innings could be played. It was raining heavily when the Wildcats batted in their half of the fifth, but the big blast by Sponberg was the only trouble Karnes had.

The loss was the first in the Aroostook League for Presque Isle, and the two clubs are scheduled to meet again this Friday, at Bob Ruth Field.

Mississippi River Rises To Flood Slowly And Leaves In Its Wake A Mass Of Waste

(Editor's Note: The following letter was mailed to the Pioneer Times on April 26 by John R. Dombek in Davenport, Iowa. The city is on the banks of the flooding Mississippi River.)

"I thought you might be interested in the flood on the Mississippi River as viewed by a Houlton native.

"The day you receive this letter the Mississippi will have reached its crest here. The crest being the deepest the river gets during a flood period. Being an Easterner, I always suspected a flood on the Mississippi would be a rampaging, violent, boiling mass of water. Like the fast moving water in one of your small streams during the spring of the year. Or, like the Medusnekeag River when it smashes over the North street dam in an early spring thaw. This is just not so. It is rather like a high tide on Grand Lake.

Move Slowly

"The waters of the Mississippi do not move very fast, even during a flood. Ten miles per hour is considered extremely bad. What actually happens is, the water gradually rises until it fills cellars, overruns roads, lawns and parks. And, if the flood is bad enough, until it goes over the tops of buildings.

Usually, contrary to the sensational pictures seen on TV of houses floating down the river, the damage that is done is strictly getting the house wet, inside and out. Occasionally a large log will float in slowly and hit a house or fence. But, it is a rare happening.

"The real dangers of a flood in this area are not from fast moving water. This area is composed of five cities: Moline, East Moline and Rock Island in Illinois, Davenport and Bettendorf in Iowa. The Mississippi is the State line. And, the cities are clustered around it so closely, it's impossible to tell when you've left one and entered the other except by the usual Chamber of Commerce signs welcoming you to whichever city you happen to be entering.

Water Supply Flooded

"All five cities get their water supply from the Mississippi, after of course, it has been purified. The purification plants of at least three of the cities are located near the edge of the river. When the river floods it naturally inundates the plants and the water supply is cut off.

This happened in East Moline Sunday and there is presently a foot of water on the floor of the Moline plant. (The Moline plant is three feet below the river level but sand bags are keeping it back.) This leaves a city twice the size of Portland with no water to drink, to wash in, to cook with.

Raw Sewerage

"During a flood all of the cities located on the Mississippi above our five here, empty their raw sewerage directly into the river. This is the same water that rises slowly in the living area. The water and the filth it brings covers everything in its path. It's somewhat like having the water waste of your home empty directly onto your back yard. It's no place for a Barbecue!

"In the meantime the water builds up great pressure in all the drainage pipes in the five cities. As the flood comes in the water backs up the drains. And, before the actual river water ever gets to the streets, sewer water pours out of the manhole covers and floods the streets with the waste of the city itself.

Hundreds of Rats

"By far the most frightening effect of a Mississippi flood, is the rats. As you know, rats live in and near the river and in the sewers and drainage pipes of any city. (You will recall the famous sewers of Paris).

"During a flood the water fills the homes of the rats so they naturally look for higher ground. A flood the scope of the present one here causes rats to invade the cities literally by the hundreds. They can be seen in alleys, in cellars, along roadsides, in dumps, wherever there is cover.

"And, they are filthy beasts. The fleas with which they are infested carry many diseases. They are absolutely fearless. If cornered they will attack. They will, when hungry, attack babies in cribs and even small children.

"These rats get into the finest homes by swimming up drains and have been known to appear in flushes and open drainage pipes. The people here keep them out by covering the openings at night with heavy weights and, truly, keeping a loaded gun handy.

Horrible Mess Remains
"The final danger of the flood remains long after the waters of the flood have receded. It is the horrible mess of waste that remains. The streets are filled with it, the streets covered, parks and lawns are killed by it. It's a long, hard job cleaning up afterward.

"When all is done, I feel it would be better if the Mississippi did come roaring down the ravine and smash houses in its wake. At least it would be over and done with. This flood will last better than a month. And how is spring in Maine?"

Sincerely,
John R. Dombek

Autumn Near Ludlow Is Scene On Road Map

Full color paintings of Maine's state bird, the Chickadee, and Pine Cone and Tassel, the official flower, are featured on the cover of Chevron road maps of Maine now being distributed from Maine to Virginia.

In an effort to stimulate greater appreciation of local wildlife, Chevron commissioned artist Harry McNaught to paint the state bird and flower of each of the 13 states the company services. Reprints of the entire series, suitable for framing, can be obtained through Chevron Dealers.

In addition to the state flower and bird, the Maine road map contains eight full color photographs of leading tourist attractions in the state. Included are Montpelier at Thomaston; Andover's Covered Bridge; the annual Maine Seafoods Festival; Rangeley Lake; an autumn scene near Ludlow; sailboats on Moosehead Lake; Arcadia National Park and the new harbor on Pemaquid Peninsula.

County Residents Spending $4.2 Million For Cigarettes

(Special to the Pioneer Times) What have residents of Aroostook County done about their cigarette smoking since the Surgeon General's report came out a year ago?

Smoking Still Heavy
Judging from the latest figures on cigarette sales in the area, very little. Most people are smoking as much as they ever did. A few were shocked sufficiently by the report, which warned of the health hazards connected with smoking, to give up cigarettes entirely or to cut down on their use.

Just what happened after the Surgeon General's findings were announced is brought out by the new figures. They show that sales of cigarettes in the United States dropped 30 per cent during the following month.

A short time later, however, the panic over smoking had subsided somewhat and the rush back to cigarettes began. Within a few months, the situation had returned to normal.

15.5 Million Packs
Aroostook County residents

smoked a total of 15,540,000 packs of cigarettes in the past year, on the basis of regional statistics issued by the tobacco industry and on tax reports from the Internal Revenue Service.

This was at the rate of 217 packs per capita for the entire local population over age 18. In 1963 the average was 219 packs per capita.

By way of comparison, the amount of smoking done nationally was 207 packs per person. The rate in the New England States was 240 packs.

Sales Off 3 Per Cent
Data released by the Department of Agriculture reveals that nearly 495 billion cigarettes were sold in the United States in 1964. This was only three per cent less than in 1963, which was a record year.

However, a new report by Surgeon General Luther L. Terry, released last month, expressed some satisfaction with the progress that has been made.

He declared: "If smoking habits had continued at the level of three years ago, there would be about 3.5 million more smokers today than there actually are".

The population rise would have accounted for a good part of the increase.

$60 Per Year Per Smoker
How much does the average Aroostook County smoker spend for cigarettes? Approximately $60 per year, it is estimated.

For the community as a whole, the annual bill is about $4,226,000.

Service Firms Gross For '63 Was $7.8 Million

Aroostook County's 436 service establishments had total receipts of $7.8 million in 1963, a decrease of eight per cent from 1958, according to a report of the 1963 census of business just released by the Bureau of the Census, U. S. Department of Commerce. The last previous census of business covered operations during 1958.

The service trades in the census of business included those providing: personal services to individuals; miscellaneous business services; auto repair and other auto services; and other repair services. Also included were motion picture production and distribution businesses; motion picture theatres; other amusement and recreation services; and hotels and motels.

In the County there were 176 personal service establishments reporting 1963 receipts of $2.1 million. Among the other selected services included in the census were: auto repair shops with receipts of $1.9 million; motion picture theatres with receipts of $470 thousand; other amusement, recreation services with receipts of $385 thousand, and hotels, motels, camps with receipts of $1.4 million.

The selected service trade establishments in the County employed 631 persons (exclusive of proprietors) and had a payroll for the year of $1.6 million. The State as a whole included 6,146 establishments with receipts of $138.9 million.

The Bureau of the Census report: selected services, Maine, 1963 census of business, from which these data are taken, may be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. 20402 and at U. S. Dept. of Commerce field offices for 35 cents.

Sunday Liquor Sales

The 102nd State Legislature is nearing the end of its session, and regardless of what action it may take in these last few days it will probably be best remembered as the Legislature that voted to permit the Sunday sale of liquor and beer in Maine.

The liquor bill, receiving heavy support from downstate areas as an attraction to tourist trade, will permit the Sunday sale of liquor in hotels, Class A restaurants and clubs, plus the sale of malt beverages (beer) to be consumed off the premises between the hours of noon and 9 p.m.

The bill was passed by the House by a 70-51 vote, and then moved through the Senate without difficulty, 21-8. It has been signed by Governor Reed, and unless there is referendum, it will become law 90 days after the Legislature adjourns.

The referendum is possible, but it would require a petition with slightly more than 29,000 signatures, or 10 per cent of the last gubernatorial total vote. Opponents of the bill are working on this, but it is a substantial undertaking.

We would seriously doubt that such a bill would be approved by the State's citizens if placed on referendum.

Most of the Aroostook delegation in the House opposed the Sunday sale. The only four who favored the bill were all from the St. John valley. All of the Representatives from the Southern Aroostook voted in opposition.

While we do not take the side of prohibition, or abstention, we find it impossible to endorse a bill that will permit both the sale of liquor and beer on Sunday.

If, indeed, such a bill will serve as a stimulus to the tourist trade in Southern Maine and along the coast, it could have a very definite ill effect in other areas. Despite some efforts in the Legislature, the sale of liquor and beer is still in the final sense left up to the individual communities, under the local option law.

We would suspect that many communities, now relatively satisfied with the method in which liquor and beer are being handled, will rebel against Sunday sales to the extent that the entire community will be voted dry. Perhaps our friends in the tourist areas could care less what happens elsewhere in the State.

We would suspect also that the Sunday sale bill would be much less offensive to a great many persons if it did not include beer to take out. Even in such a State as New Jersey, where liquor laws have been considerably more liberal than here in Maine, a line has been drawn on the take-out sales.

It seems most unfortunate that we have to 'bribe' tourists in coming to our great State by offering them liquor and beer on Sundays.

Shaping Congressional Districts

(Christian Science Monitor)

For years reformers have hoped to get legislation through the United States Congress which would set standards to assure that congressional districts are composed of contiguous territory, are as compact as practicable, and are substantially equal in population. For the first time such a bill may actually become law.

A 1964 Supreme Court decision made it likely that either state legislatures would have to determine reasonable sizes and shapes for congressional districts within their states or the courts would. Thus it was that, under the threat of action by the courts, Rep. Emmanuel Celler (D) of New York was for the first time in 14 years able to get his congressional districting bill out of committee and passed by the House of Representatives. In fact, there was not a dissenting vote on the floor of the House.

The bill would permit no district to vary by more than 15 per cent in population from the average of all congressional districts in a state. The importance of this provision is illustrated by Texas, a notorious example,

Moon Planting

The countryman is not superstitious although he does not walk under a ladder and he is inclined to toss a few grains of spilt salt over his left shoulder. He does not subscribe completely to the folklore axiom that the phase of the moon influences the growth of plants.

The moon is important and probably we should go up there and see what's going on, although men still don't know how to live together on our small planet. We understand that a full moon in spring has an influence on young people, and we know dogs that seem to go berserk on moonlit nights as well as whippoorwills that seem wound up with their repetitive calls.

Grandfather always claimed that a man should plant by the moon. Crops that grow above ground should be planted in the waxing phase, potatoes and other root crops should be started in the waning phase. Scientists who operate objectively have graphs and charts to prove that this is all nonsense. What counts, they say, is the temperature of the soil and the temperature of the air.

In 1522 Oviedo wrote, "Planting is done in the time of the new moon, for just as the moon grows larger, will grow the things planted." As stated, the countryman is not superstitious. He believes in modern science although he does not understand it. Still, there is no point in taking unnecessary chances. Let's see. It is time to plant carrots and beets. What does the calendar say? The moon is waning. It seems a logical day to plant the things that grow underground.

"Chinese Bookkeeping" Aids Budget

By Ray Vernon

We are now beginning to get a clear idea of what President Johnson meant when he pledged to keep the budget below the $100 billion figure.

It can all be explained by the clever use of "Chinese bookkeeping" on the part of the President and his budget experts. Let's see how it works.

When Mr. Johnson presented his budget to Congress earlier in the year it showed a reduction of $168 million in government subsidies for wheat farmers. This was only one of many reductions that appeared in the budget.

New Farm Program

Well, last week the Department of Agriculture came out with its new farm program and, sure enough, the reduction is still there. But something new popped up. The Administration tacked on an increase of 50 cents a bushel on the price paid by wheat processors—millers, bakers and others—and at the same time reduced the subsidy paid for wheat destined for overseas markets.

Now, what does this all mean? First off, it means that the cost of wheat will go up from $2 to $2.50 bushel which is an increase of 25 per cent in the chief raw material used by the millers, bakers and other processors. These are the people who produce the staff of life—bread for the American table.

Even Mr. Johnson knew one fact couldn't be concealed from the consumer and that is that the increase would have to be passed on to someone—the consumer. He said it would result in a one-cent hike in the cost of a loaf of bread. But experts from the American Bakers Association felt otherwise. They testified before a House agriculture subcommittee the other day it will really kick the price of bread up two cents, not one cent.

Here's what else Mr. Johnson's "Chinese bookkeeping" means—the American consumer will pick up that two-cent-per-loaf or 50-cent-per-bushel additional cost the government has arbitrarily added to the price of wheat.

It also means the consumer will stand the gaff for the reduction in subsidies for export wheat, a reduction from $1.55 per bushel to $1.25 per bushel. Now, let's get all the pieces in place.

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman just last week said we have to save the family farm at all cost. These are the small farms generally operated by a farmer and his family. Said Mr. Freeman: "We ought never to forget that it is the free enterprise, commercial family farm system that brought about the era of food abundance and reasonable food prices. If the family farm is permitted to die, and is replaced by a handful of factory farms, the consumer will find his costs skyrocketing."

Let's examine that statement in the context of this new turn of events in the price of wheat. First, we consider that 50-cent-a-bushel increase Freeman proposes to pass on to the wheat consumer. Where does it go?

"Factory Farms"

On the basis of the latest Department of Agriculture statistics less than 15 per cent of the wheat farms in the United States had 75 per cent of the total wheat acreage. These obviously are the "factory farms" to which Freeman referred. These are, just as obviously, the farms that will cut up three quarters of the 50-cent-a-bushel pie that the American consumer is being asked to pay for.

Now really, Mr. Freeman. Is that the way to keep the small family farm alive and keep consumers' costs from skyrocketing?

We might just as well ask a few more pointed questions. It is a well known fact that most of the wheat food products are consumed by the low income groups in this country—not the high income groups. These are the people who are going to have to dig down in their pockets and ante up the two cents on each loaf of bread to make Mr. Johnson's dream budget come true. What about your multi-million-dollar poverty program, Mr. President? Is this the way you are going to help the poor folks?

35 Million Are Poor

The cold, harsh statistics prepared by Mr. Johnson's own poverty experts show that there are some 35 million poor in this country who have 23 cents a meal or less to spend—50 million with 30 cents or less per meal.

All of this is happening just as Congress is about to buy, lock, stock and barrel and no questions asked—Mr. Johnson's excise tax reduction program. This means that while the President is dead set on whacking 10 per cent off the cost of jewelry, furs and other luxury items he wants to turn around and slap a 10 per cent bread tax that will hit hardest the poor people of this country.

There are some other inconsistencies that can't be ignored. The Administration has been beating the drums to try to get the American people to eat more wheat products. It should be obvious that if the price of bread goes up the consumer will turn to other staples, namely potatoes. So, instead of more wheat consumption there will be less wheat consumption. There isn't any other way to figure it.

The American people will justifiably want to take a closer look at the Administration's "Chinese bookkeeping" when the next budget comes up in January.

The Editor's Corner

Owen L. Prince Sr., a prominent resident of Oakfield, a former member of the State Legislature, and a veteran of World War I, is quite outspoken when it comes to the manner in which Memorial Day is now being observed in most communities.

In a statement prepared for the Pioneer Times, Mr. Prince says, "I distinctly remember the Memorial Sunday many years ago at Island Falls, which was then my home town, and from which I had been the first volunteer to enter World War I along with Walter Cassidy. After leaving the church we made the trek to the cemetery. I shall always remember an old veteran of the Grand Army, William Leavitt, stopping smartly along side me in the march of a mile or more. And if I live to be 100, I will never forget the pride in that old man's face."

"Oh, if we, the veterans of today, could enjoy our memories as that old man did. It seems that today the veterans of World War II should take up the cross, where their forebears had have had to lay it down. Few men of my group are under 70, and the next group is entering late middle age. It is upon them that rests the burden of continuing the memories and experiences in the great World Wars."

"We should impress upon our minds the words of President Lincoln, 'That from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion.'"

"Many of our veterans organizations are working strenuously for benefits for those veterans in need, but is it not high time that we returned to the patriotic deeds that caused these wars to be won, and to praise the deeds of the departed on these days set aside for that purpose?"

Labor Laws Bring Frowns

Washington, D.C.—That worried look on the faces of merchants up and down both sides of Main Street may result from the labor legislation President Lyndon B. Johnson has proposed to Congress.

As a matter of fact the frowns may extend out into rural areas because the President seeks to remove labor law exemptions now applying to the handling and processing of farm products, to employees of logging contractors and to those who work in grain elevators or in cotton ginning.

All Are Affected

Aside from the business community, it would be difficult to find any adult American not affected at least potentially by the far-reaching implications of the White House labor program. Everybody who shops at a retail store, visits a hotel or motel, rides a taxicab, eats in a restaurant, attends a movie, or is confined in a hospital has a stake in the legislation Congress is considering.

This is true because these enterprises now enjoy exemptions from the so-called "minimum wage" law. LBJ wants to end these exemptions. This will mean employers will have to raise the pay of 4½ million workers. Naturally the higher labor costs will have to be passed on to the customers.

The Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 decreed that covered employers had to pay their workers 40 cents or more per hour, and time and one-half for overtime beyond 40 hours a week. The 40-cent hourly minimum has been raised over the years until it is now $1.25.

AFU-CIO is agitating for a $2 an hour minimum wage, perhaps in three steps to $1.50, $1.75 and finally $2. The President has accepted most of organized labor's demands but has balked on this one. He told Congress he favors an increase but the question is "when and by how much."

President Johnson rejected one other union goal—a cut in the statutory work week from 40 to 35 hours, with no reduction in pay for workers. He did recommend this matter be studied by a commission.

One of the most controversial items in the President's package is a proposal to require payment of double overtime, instead of time and one-half, to those who work more than 45 hours in a week.

The idea is to make it so expensive for an employer to work his regular staff beyond 45 hours that he will be forced to hire new workers, thus cutting unemployment. Business leaders say it will not work that way because there is a shortage of skilled workers now and no law will enable unskilled workers to perform skilled jobs.

Congress has had a look at a more restricted double overtime proposal in recent years but has failed to act. However, that was before last fall's election swept so many friends of labor into office and produced a clear majority in both House and Senate who were elected with union support.

A House Labor subcommittee headed by Representative James Roosevelt (D., Calif.), son of the New Deal President, has already begun consideration of the minimum wage and double overtime amendments. Fast action is promised in response to the President's call for "immediate action."

Another controversial part of the President's labor program is repeal of a 1947 law authorizing state right-to-work laws. There are 19 states with such laws banning the "union shop." Ten are in the south, five in the midwest, and four in the far west.

Compulsory Unionism

The issue here is compulsory unionism. A "union shop" means that a worker must belong to the union to hold his job. The President of the Chamber of Commerce of the U.S., Robert P. Gerholz, was aiming his guns at right-to-work repeal when he termed LBJ's message "clear and ominous proof that when governments reach out to mold societies, they start trampling on basic human rights."

He added: "It is now the American's turn in history to decide whether a beautified landscape and other trappings of a planned society are worth the loss of such freedoms as the right to hold a job in one's chosen profession except at the sufferance of a labor union."

President Johnson also called for establishment of a Federal unemployment insurance program—but that's another story.

Garden Time

Memorial day is the day that many people set as the time to plant their gardens. We have been choosing our seeds for the best vegetables and flowers. But when we choose the seed, we are not interested in the shape of the seed. Some seeds are rough, some are smooth, some are treated and some look like chaff. Where would our gardens be if when we planted, we chose our seed only by its appearance?

The Church of Jesus Christ is made up of all kinds of seeds: some are rough, some are smooth, some have to be treated, and some may carry the appearance of chaff. What a beauty a garden is when we are concerned about the kind of 'fruit' rather than the kind of seed.

In like manner, when we let the Sunshine of God's loveliness in our hearts and allow that Seed to grow, the Church of Jesus Christ becomes a thing of beauty and a tribute to the Great Gardener. But also, what an eye sore a garden is when there are skips here and there because of seed failing to grow or when it withers.

God must look with displeasure upon His Church when there are here and there skips because someone has not allowed the Grace of God to work in his life or because we consider ourselves unlovely. The whole Church suffers as a consequence. May our gardens remind us of our part in the Church of Jesus Christ.

Young Adults Promise Major Impact On County's Economy

(Special to the Pioneer Times)
Aroostook County's "young adult" population, which is increasing rapidly, promises to have a major impact upon the local economy during the next five years.

At the present time, according to figures obtained from the Census Bureau, there are 8,953 young men and women locally between the ages of 20 and 24, the young adult bracket.

Business Factor
This group is of especial importance to the business community because it accounts for the great majority of local marriages and for most of the new household formations.

In terms of dollars and cents, it is estimated that on a national basis an average of $1,300 is spent by a young couple in connection with their engagement and wedding and that an additional $3,500 goes into setting up their initial household.

On that basis, the 4,470 local marriages that may be expected among these young adults during the next five years will generate some $21,000,000 in new business, especially in housing and in durable goods.

The money will go for furniture, dishes, refrigerators, carpeting, electrical gadgets, linens, draperies and, eventually, for baby carriages.

And that is only the beginning. A survey shows that approximately $16,000 is spent on the home by the average couple, in cash or credit, over a period of 15 years.

Similar boosts to the local economy, due to new household formations, may be expected in subsequent years. For, right back of the current crop of young adults in Aroostook County, ready to move into their age bracket five years hence, is an even larger number of young people, 11,369, who are now in the 15 to 19 age category.

Number Is Zooming
All over the country, the number of persons who are turning 20, going to work and forming families of their own, is zooming at an impressive rate.

The official figures reveal that there are 2,756,616 who will be reaching that age this year, as compared with 2,194,207 who became 20 five years ago.

According to the Population Reference Bureau: "This phenomenon presents a social, moral, educational and employment problems which will increase each year."

Health For All

Unfinished Business

Health experts have been complaining lately about measles. Not their own-people's. And no wonder. Here is an old-time contagious disease that could easily be scratched from the list. But it's still permitted to hang around.

But if the outlook for abolishing measles seems spotty right now, don't blame medical science. The doctors and researchers have done their part of the job by developing a safe and efficient vaccine. Trouble is that parents haven't been bothering to get Junior vaccinated. Result: half a million cases are still reported every year, and the U. S. Public Health Service estimates that ten times as many go unreported.

Ninety per cent of American kids have measles by the time they are 15, according to Dr. Luther L. Terry, U. S. Surgeon General. He also points out that the disease isn't as harmless as many parents think. Complications often result, and these include serious disease such as encephalitis and pneumonia. About 10 per cent of the encephalitis patients die, according to Government health statistics. Of those that recover, 15 to 20 per cent are left with such unpleasant relics as mental retardation, slight or hearing defects, or behavior disorders.

Measles, in short, is nothing trivial despite a general feeling of complacency about it. And the irony of it all is that there is no real excuse for its remaining a guest in your house. It could be substantially wiped out in this country in a short time if the vaccine were widely used.

The Public Health Service has appealed to all parents to have their children immunized against measles during 1965. With only seven million vaccinated so far, there are still 20 million to go. If you have children who lack measles immunity, your Christmas Seal association suggests that right now is the time to send them to the doctor for the protection they need.

Before you buy any car at any price, consider a Cadillac first of all.

New or previously owned, a Cadillac is the one way to be sure your investment will buy the most and last the longest.

Whatever you have budgeted for your next car, your Cadillac dealer has a Cadillac to fit your plans. Naturally, if your choice were unrestricted, you would prefer a new 1965 Cadillac like the Sedan de Ville in front. Next best would be a late-model, previously-owned Cadillac such as the black 1963 Sedan de Ville, above. A well-maintained, one-owner used Cadillac is actually the only real rival of a new Cadillac. Because of the popularity of the 1965 model, your authorized dealer is the one logical place to go for the best selection of fine used Cadillacs.

TIPS from Ruth

Extension Agent

Are you planting new shrubs or trees around your home? Lyle Littlefield, instructor in ornamental horticulture, gives these timely tips on planting of trees and shrubs.

- (1) Handling of Nursery Stock — Plants which can not be planted soon after arrival should be protected from drying out. Wet down thoroughly. Bare rooted stock may be soaked in a bucket of water overnight. If plants have to be held several days it would be best to heel them out in the garden area.
- (2) Preparation of Planting Hole — Dig and prepare a planting hole adequate in size for the plant. For shrubs and three feet in diameter and 15 to 18 inches deep — straight sided, not scooped out. For trees dig hole five feet in diameter and 18 inches deep.
- (3) Soil for Planting — Save all good soil from digging for refilling. Discard poor soil and fill. Bring in good top soil if necessary for refilling. Addition of peat moss would be beneficial.
- (4) Planting Depth — Leave burlap on balled and burlapped specimens. Loosen burlap at top from around plant after final placement in hole. Remove plastic from soil ball before planting. Plastic is being used by some nurseries in place of or in addition to burlap. Spread roots out to normal position on bare rooted stock. Fill and pack good top soil in about the roots or soil ball. Tamp soil in with stick or tramp in with feet to get firm contact between soil and roots. Water thoroughly after setting. An application of a complete soluble fertilizer as a starter solution will help.
- (5) Summer Care — Make sure to water thoroughly once a week if normal rainfall is lacking. Check for any insect damage, and take necessary control measures.

How to raise potatoes that make the grade when the chips are down

You need a fungicide you can count on when early or late blight threatens. Even under severe weather conditions.

Polyram® You need a fungicide that stays in suspension, won't clog spray nozzles. One that mixes readily with water and is compatible with other chemicals you may be using (including sodium arsenite). One that stays put, yet spreads evenly. One you know won't injure foliage.

Polyram You need a fungicide that promotes tuber quality. Results in potatoes having higher densities, and a lighter chipping color—at harvest and after chilled storage. Yields more No. 1 potatoes.

Polyram Get it. And you'll have it made.

Maine-N.B. Authorities Agree On Handling Fishing Waters

Maine Fish and Game Commissioner Ronald T. Speers says an understanding has been reached between Maine and New Brunswick authorities to clarify the fishing regulations for waters along the Maine-New Brunswick border, particularly East Grand Lake. In summary, the agreement states that the imaginary line marking the international boundary will not be used in enforcement of fishing laws.

Attending a meeting to discuss the matter were Commissioner Speers; Maine Attorney General Richard J. DuBord; Chief Warden Maynard F. Marsh, Maine Fish and Game Dept.; A. T. Pelletier, director, New Brunswick Fish and Wildlife Branch; New Brunswick Chief Warden Mullen Hughes; and New Brunswick District Forester J. Kelso Robinson, whose rangers have fishing law enforcement among their duties.

Incident of May 9
The meeting was a follow-up to an investigation of actions of May 9, when 13 Maine residents were apprehended angling in New Brunswick waters and were asked to buy non-resident licenses before their fishing equipment was returned.

Commissioner Speers and Director Pelletier issued a joint statement announcing the co-operative settlement of the confusion over the fishing rights: "It is unfortunate that the May 9 incident created a belief that relations were being jeopardized between anglers of both countries and the departments involved in sport fisheries protection and management along the 35 miles of international waters. The investigation revealed that excellent co-operation exists between agencies and has never been better.

Adequate Protection
"Both agencies intend to give adequate protection to this important body of water; but the boundary line, which follows a very erratic course across these waters, will not be used by enforcement officers to compel anglers to buy non-resident licenses.

"We feel, however, that anglers from Maine and New Brunswick should not use this fish waters definitely known to the anglers as Canadian or American waters. The erratic coast line produces many inlets and coves, both in Maine and New Brunswick, which vary considerably in length. In one particular section of Spednic Lake, one such inlet extends inland in New Brunswick for more than six miles.

Straight Line Guides
"Officers from both Maine and New Brunswick will be given definite instructions regarding the protection of inlets, coves, and waters definitely known as Canadian or American waters. They will be supplied with maps, and as a general rule, and straight line drawn from point to point on the same shore will be used as a guide to determine if the angler is in Canadian or American waters.

"The use of this procedure will mean that no anglers will be deprived of the benefit or doubt which the Imaginary Line is definitely creating. In other words, anglers using a narrow thoroughfare or recognized route to go from one stretch of water to another can do so without having to produce a non-resident license.

"No appreciable difference exists between non-resident season angling licenses required for the waters involved, as the fee for New Brunswick is $7.50, compared with $8.75 for Maine."

Pay your debts as promptly as your grudges and your credit will be unlimited.

Maine's Wildlife:

The Weasel

By Prof. Malcolm Coulter
University of Maine

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second in a series of 16 articles on the major wild animals of Maine. These word sketches have been prepared by Prof. Malcolm Coulter of the University of Maine. Prof. Coulter is a widely recognized expert in the field of game management. The series, written in an easy-to-read style, is designed to inform Maine residents, young and old alike, about the wildlife of their state. Today's article deals with the Weasel.)

DESCRIPTION: Weasels are slender, short-legged animals with long tails which are dark near the tip. They may be as small as a half-grown house rat or as large as a small mink. Actually, at first glance a large weasel may look like a mink. However, weasels are noticeably lighter on the under surface whereas mink are uniformly dark both above and below.

During the winter weasels in Maine shed their brownish coat for a white one. Three kinds of weasels are found in Maine. All are similar in general appearance and habits. The smallest varieties weigh but two or three ounces, the larger weigh up to one-half pound.

RANGE: All of North America. DISTRIBUTION IN MAINE: Weasels show striking changes in abundance. During some winters their neat tracks may be seen often in our woodlands. Yet, a year or so later one may search hours to find signs of a weasel.

HABITS: The weasel is a bold, inquisitive, sometimes blood-thirsty little animal. Its home is a nest in the den of some other animal, the crevices of a rock pile, or a hollow log.

The weasel hunts mostly at night. Sometimes one will find them about rail fences, stone piles, or brush heaps during the day. By remaining motionless, an observer may be rewarded with a closer view. Squeaking will almost always produce some interesting observations.

FOOD: Small mammals are the chief prey of the weasel. Small birds, frogs, insects, and grubs are occasionally added to the fare. Sometimes a weasel kills much more than it can eat.

REPRODUCTION: Mating occurs during midsummer. Four to eight young are born in the spring. The gestation period and other details of reproduction are not fully known. The parents bring food to their young for several weeks.

DEMOLAY WINNING TEAM — Top honors in the bowling league conducted by the Demolay this past season at the Hilltop Lanes went to this group. Left to right are "Dad" Clayton Niles, Robert Lyons, Barry Hobert, the team captain, and Joseph Grant. Also a member of the team was Brent Horton. Trophies were presented at the annual banquet last week at the Masonic Temple. (Pioneer Times Photo)

Health For All

You never saw anything cuter. The angelic little four-year-old, with a non-angelic grin, was digging small candy pellets out of the bottle and cramming them into his mouth. Luckily his parents found him in time — not to punish him but to rush him to a hospital.

The child had believed them when told that the pills, given him from the bottle for an illness, were "candy." They had tasted good; another helping seemed in order when nobody was looking. Only quick action saved his life.

Seventy-five per cent of accidental poisonings in the United States happen to children under 15. Most of those poisoned — there are 600,000 a year — are under five. Fortunately, most recover — but only after traumatic fright suffered by the parents and often after agonizing illness on the child's part.

Some anti-poisoning "don'ts" for the sensible household are well known. Others aren't. Besides the one illustrated by the above episode, here are some that can save adult as well as juvenile lives:

— Don't leave discarded medicines where children can get at them.

— Don't re-use containers of medical substances.

— Don't put nonedible products on shelves used for storing food.

— Don't use drugs or chemical products without scanning the labels.

— Don't give or take medicines in the dark.

— Don't be over-severe or alarmist in warning your child. You might provoke the wrong reaction.

The American Association of Poison Control Centers estimates that up to 250,000 poisonous substances are contained in items available for household use. They range from soaps and detergents to vitamins and laxative preparations. Your Christmas Seal association suggests: In case of accidental poisoning, phone your doctor or the nearest hospital.

Only Couple Of Bulldogs Better .300

The Ricker College baseball squad under new head coach Woody Dunphy is at the half way mark of the season with a 6-3 record with only two men hitting over .300.

Coach Dunphy, a former All-Yankee Conference when at Maine, is finding this a building season with five new faces in the lineup. Mike St. Thomas, a sophomore from Lincoln, is playing for the first time and is presently leading the team in batting. He has collected 12 hits, also high for the team, in 34 at bats for a .352 average. Artie Pasquale is the only other batter over .300 with a .307 mark. Pasquale, a senior from Cranston, R.I., has scored 13 times and driven nine runs across the plate. Freshman Dick Baxter of Bath also shares the RBI lead with Pasquale.

The only other senior on the team, Bill Goodnough of Delhi, N.Y., is tops in total bases, triples and doubles. Goodnough, the only upperclassman to be playing the infield, has batted out three doubles and two triples. This totaled with his four singles gives him a team high of 16 total bases.

Ricker will begin the second half of their season this Saturday against Aroostook State in a doubleheader in a Northeast College Conference battle. The Bulldogs of Houlton are 1-2 in Conference action.

Report to MAINE

Senator E. J. M. M.

I was very pleased to announce that the Office of Economic Opportunity has approved a grant of $158,500 to Camp Maine STAY at Skowhegan for its program this summer.

Camp Maine STAY is a creative new approach in broadening the economic and social horizons of needy, fatherless Maine families. The success of the camp in its first two years has brought it national attention.

The federal grant, which will support about two-thirds of the camp's program this summer, is an ideal example of cooperation between local, state and federal personnel.

Can Enroll 760

Sam Kadison, executive consultant of the anti-poverty program in Maine and the director of Camp Maine STAY, told me that the federal grant will serve two purposes. First, it will enable the camp to increase total enrollment from 250 to about 760. Second, it will enable an evaluation of the program.

It is possible that the camp's unique family approach to helping persons of all ages will be incorporated into anti-poverty programs across the nation. Dr. Glen Vernon, chairman of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of Maine, will direct the evaluation of Camp Maine STAY and will publish the results in a guide for other states.

Mr. Kadison told me that the camp was started in 1963 to enable ADC mothers and their children, as well as other citizens, emotionally disturbed youngsters and school dropouts, to benefit from a wholesome family environment away from home.

The camp also enables the professional staff to evaluate on a 24-hour basis the effectiveness of regular welfare programs.

Results Encouraging

The results of the first two summers were encouraging and rewarding. A third of the mothers who attended the camp have since improved their circumstances to the point where they have left the ADC rolls. Many of these have asked if they could make a financial contribution so that other mothers could have the opportunity to attend the camp.

Another significant result has been the mothers' increased appreciation of education for their children. Mr. Kadison said that many mothers who previously wanted their children to leave school to help support the family now encourage them to study hard and to graduate.

At camp, the youngsters have a tutorial program as well as a regular schedule of summer camp activities. The mothers participate as nurses' aides, office workers, kitchen managers and in other administrative duties. Older persons, from 65 to 95, help with maintenance and other responsibilities according to their training and ability. The purpose is to encourage the campers to break the poverty pattern by exposing them to a variety of new and stimulating experiences in new family environment.

Mr. Kadison said that camping has been a welfare phenomenon for 100 years but it generally remains underprized as a means of therapy to relieve and solve family problems.

I commend all the persons who have contributed to the growth and success of Camp Maine STAY, and I look forward to personally meeting the teenagers from the camp who will visit Washington this summer.
